

5 Good Reasons

The Coachella Valley Is The Right Fit For You

If the Coachella Valley was a boring ol' desert with nothing more than some lonesome lizards and the occasional wildflower, then why do A-list celebrities from Barbra Streisand to Leonardo DiCaprio choose it as their destination for getaways? Could it be proof that the Coachella Valley is an exciting desert playground, teeming with diversity and fun things to see and do? Follow us as we highlight the five reasons why it's California's best kept secret and why you would love to call it home.

1

Secret Revealed: Cost of Living

The Coachella Valley is relatively 8% cheaper than the local averages in Los Angeles or San Diego, and on-par with national averages. The cost of living leaves more money in your pocket in an area with a higher quality of life.

2

Endless Outdoor Activities

The Coachella Valley is teeming with activities the family can enjoy and thrills geared towards the adventure-enthusiast. Popular desert activities include yoga, cycling, tennis, golf, and rock climbing.

3

Schools with Great Ranking

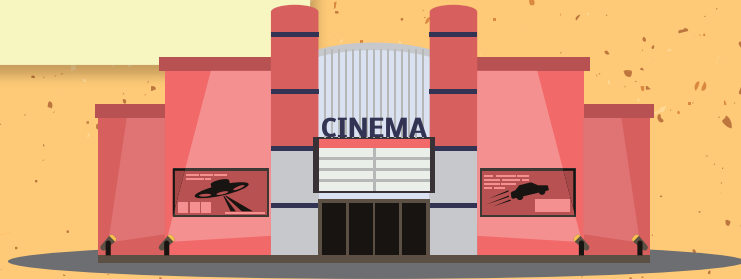

The Coachella Valley is home to several high-ranking elementary and high schools. It is also a great place to pursue higher education with several community colleges and a Cal State San Bernardino satellite campus.

4

Palm Springs: Arts & Culture Central

The Coachella Valley is an oasis of arts and culture! From architecture and art museums to film and music festivals, a variety of talents showcase their work in the Palm Springs area. Everything from the Palm Springs Art Museum and Modernism Week, to the Palm Springs Film Festival and Coachella Valley Music Festival, there is something for everyone to explore.

5

Sunshine All The Time

With an average of 364 days of sunshine out of the year, how can you go wrong? Relaxing by the pool and basking in the sun, is somewhat of an Olympic sport in the Coachella Valley.

It's not surprising that the Coachella Valley is one of the fastest growing areas in California. Affordable living, great schools, and endless sunshine are only a few reasons why the Coachella Valley is right for you.
